DEMOCRATS WIN.

Loss or 16,000 Votes By Republicans From Election of 1908.

More than 16,000 voters of Monroe county, N. Y., changed from the Republican to the Democratic column on April 19, and elected the first Democratic Congressman that has represented the district in twenty years. James S. Havens defeated George W. Aldridge, for a score of years the ruler of the county Republican organization.

Mr. Havens' platform advocated tariff reform in the interests of the consumer, a revision of the duties on wool and woolen goods, a removal of the tax on hides and lumber, a removal of the tariff on iron ore, an income tax, and finally advocating independence of all political bosses of any party.

The Democrats acknowledge that one of the main factors in the reversal was a personal issue raised by Aldridge's record as a party boss and the evidence presented at the recent fire insurance investigation. Aldridge acknowledged that he received a $1,000 check.

Although Democrats in Congress claim the election is a party triumph, Republicans held that the personal side of the two candidates was the leading factor.

"Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is the best remedy for that often fatal disease—croup. Has been used with success in our family for eight years."—Mrs. L. Whiteacre, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Gentleman In The White House.

For the personality of the President, his integrity and patriotism, the Courier-Journal entertains the very greatest respect. He is a young man of real merit who has much to learn. He is playing in hard luck. After November he will need all his philosophy. He may reach a point, indeed, where he will be moved to say to a certain man: "Here, take your job, Theodore, for I am sick and tired, and want to go a-fishing."—Courier-Journal.

EASY TO CURE

Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat and Catarrh.

Breathe Hymeyi. It will cure catarrh or any nose or throat trouble if you follow directions. Don't lay it aside when the sniffling, hawking and spitting have ceased. Stick to it daily until you are sure that the catarrh germ is dead, and that your air passages are free from their poisonous influence. Hymeyi (pronounced High-o-mey) is the only treatment for nose, throat and lung troubles that has ever been sold with the understanding that if it did not cure, it was to cost absolutely nothing.

Hymeyi can be obtained at druggists everywhere and at W. S. Lloyd's, who guarantees it to cure catarrh, croup, sore throat, coughs and colds. A complete outfit $1.00, which is mighty cheap for a remedy that has cured more cases of catarrh than all the catarrh specialists on earth.

An outfit consists of an inhaler, a bottle of Hymeyi, a supply of antiseptic gauze, a medicine dropper, and full instructions for use. The inhaler is made pocket size, of hard rubber, and will last a lifetime. And bear in mind that extra bottles of Hymeyi, if needed, cost only 50 cents. 42&44.

M-I-O-N-A

Cures Indigestion.

It relieves stomach misery, sour stomach, belching, and cures all stomach diseases or money back. Large box of tablets 50 cents. Druggists in all towns.

Glorying in the Cross.

When Paul said, "God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of Christ," it is clearly implied that there is nothing else in which he should glory, or take pride; but why in the cross? The cross was in Paul's day a symbol of shame, as much so as the scaffold is to-day. The cross was intended by those who crucified Jesus as an everlasting stigma on his name; and what did Paul find in it on which to glory? Paul had great talents; he had great power with men; he was loved and admired by a host of the bravest and best of men and women, some of whom laid down their necks to save his life; but he dared not pride himself on any of these things. Why was he not ashamed of the fact that the being whom he served had been crucified, instead of glorying in it? It is easy to see that he glorified Christ because he had condescended to suffer a cruel death for a sinful world, but what did he find in that fact to be proud of himself?

If a man is despised by his neighbors, looked upon with contempt as an outcast from good society, but is highly esteemed and honored by the noblest and wisest men of the whole community, there is something in this for him to be proud of. He can lift himself up, and say to his despisers, a better and wiser man than any of you admires me, honors me in the sight of you all, and receives me as an honored guest into his dwelling; he can be proud of this. He is proud of it. And how was all this with Paul? He was regarded by the great mass of those who knew his name as the "offscouring of the earth;" yet he could stand up in the presence of the whole earth and boast that the noblest and wisest man who ever graced this earth by his presence, esteemed him so highly that he died for him—died for him by crucifixion.

No man, and no angel, ever had so much to be proud of. And so it is with us all. So high an estimate has never been given of any rank or order of beings in the universe. When angels fell, they fell to rise no more. No sacrificial offering was made for them. This is the highest proof ever given of the value of human life in the sight of God. Only those ingrates of our race who despise and dishonor their birthright by turning their backs on Jesus can fail to glory in this high honor. We should not be surprised when we think of it that there is a song to be sung which the angels can not sing. It is the song of redemption by the cross of Christ.—J. W. McGarvey in Christian Standard.

For a mild easy action of the bowels, a single dose of Doan's Regulents is enough. Treatment cures habitual constipation. 25 cents a box. Ask your druggist for them.

New Traction Line.

Paris representatives of the promoters who are working up the projected electric interurban line between Paris and Cynthiana have received messages from the officials, who are now in New York consulting with contractors and engineers in regard to the construction of the road. They state that the work will positively begin at an early date, and that they are now making contracts for the work of grading for the roadbed, the right of way having been all secured.

The new road will tap a rich section of the Bluegrass, and will be an important connecting line for the Central Kentucky traction lines.

BLACK LOCUST TREES

Are Money Makers When Cultivated and Cared For.

Hallsville, Mo., April 12, '10. Mt. Sterling Advocate:

Ten years ago we had black locust sprouts to come up from cuttings of small roots in the yard.

We grubbed them up at 9 years old. They made 41 fence posts and 41 bean poles, 7 to 9 ft. long. I was offered 25c apiece for all the posts that would measure 4 inches in diameter. The bean poles are ready sale at 1c apiece. The trees grew on a piece of ground about 16 ft. square; all made two posts to a tree, 6 1/2 ft. long.

If a boy would plant out one acre in trees about 4 ft. apart each way he would have 2,678 trees, count two posts to each tree and he could sell 5,356 posts, say 10c per post. Count off one-fourth for deficit or small posts, and he would have $402 for first cutting in 10 years. Saw trees close to the ground, and in a few years there will be a better growth of trees than the first, for they will have more roots to draw growth from.

About five pounds of seed will plant an acre, and it can be bought at about $3.50 per pound. Fix about 4 rows on an acre, plant the seed close together. When one year old transplant to 4 ft. apart.

If a boy could put out 3 acres and cultivate well for two years, trim trees to a straight pole about twice, after that the trees will need but little attention. Let the trees grow 16 years, and sell most of them for telephone poles at $1 each. More money for less work than anything else.

Soak seed in warm water 24 hours then plant about one inch deep. Keep clean of weeds for two years.

One man has 65 trees 7 years old, plenty large to make 3 posts to each tree. They are very close in place.

One of my neighbors said he would put out 1,000 trees this Spring. Can get yearlings at $10 a thousand. Nursery firms have seed and trees for sale.

Try it boys, you can sell all readily. Trees will not quit when cut, new sprouts will grow up quickly and make better trees than first cutting.

J. C. COONS.

Every family and especially those who reside in the country should be provided at all times with a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment. There is no telling when it may be wanted in case of an accident or emergency. It is most excellent in all cases of rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by all dealers.

The Confederate Reunion.

There are now gathered in the historic city of Mobile the remnant of the bravest and noblest band of brothers who ever marched to martial music or bared their breasts to the bullets of an invading foe and fought and bled and died for the cause they loved. Those who can get there of the boys who wore the gray from '61 to '65 will march again in line in the city that loved and sheltered them nearly half a century ago. The city is welcoming them with true Southern hospitality, to their homes as well as to their hearts. The reunion began yesterday.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets assist nature in driving all impurities out of the system, insuring a free and regular condition and restoring the organs of the body to health and strength. Sold by all dealers.

Roosevelt and the Pope.

That our Rough Rider ex-President should have unhorsed the Vatican in a diplomatic meet is easily believable only by those who know of his consummate skill in matters of the kind. Yet this is what seems to have happened. For some weeks the curious have been wondering how Mr. Roosevelt would be able to get gracefully through Rome. Mr. Fairbanks is an ex-Vice-President, and consequently could have no political hopes to shatter by a clash with the Pope. But his experience would not make the way easier for one who has good reasons to consider himself a prospective candidate for the Presidency three years hence. However, Mr. Roosevelt has run the gauntlet and comes forth smiling, admired for his attitude by both Protestant and Catholic.

Before leaving Egypt, Mr. Roosevelt received from friends of the Vatican a telegram which said, in most courteous way, that if the great American pleased, the Pope would see him, provided no unfortunate incident arose to prevent it. To this Mr. Roosevelt replied that he would be delighted to meet the Holy Father, provided he could do so without limiting his own freedom of conduct. Then the Papal eye flashed, and he sent one referring to "the understanding expressed in the former message." Then came the finale, when, with the characteristic suavity of one who holds the key to the situation, Brano Tumbo said to the Pope: "The proposed presentation is, of course, now impossible." And the folks around the Vatican have been wondering ever since how it happened.

With the matter standing like this, Mr. Roosevelt would seem to have set himself in most favorable light with Protestants in general, and Methodists in particular, but whether Catholics would be satisfied was an open question. Forthwith the opportunity to even things present itself. B. M. Tipple, pastor of the American Methodist Church at Rome, broke forth with congratulations for Methodists in particular and Protestants in general. Mr. Roosevelt, on hearing of it, canceled the public reception planned, declaring that any effort to start a religious controversy over an incident purely personal was ill-timed. This must have soothed Catholics without offending Methodists, so our distinguished citizen comes out of a most embarrassing tangle with high honor.—Christian Standard.

The Circus Is Coming.

The modern, monster successful circus is distinctly an American institution. No other form of out door entertainment can replace it in the hold it has upon the affections of all the people and this applies equally to the "city folk" as well as to the out of town people.

Other forms of out door entertainment have their vogue, such as the "Wild West Show," "White Cities," etc., and they attract patronage for a time, but when flaring bills announce the coming of the circus, then the small boy as well as his elders begin to "sit up and take notice" and it's a foregone conclusion that the aforesaid young people and their elders will be promptly on hand to witness the glories and splendor of the street pageant and display in the parades made daily.

The Greater Norris & Rowe Circus with its own two trains of 40 double length cars and with its thousands of people and horses will be the most interesting event when it appears in Mt. Sterling next Wednesday, May 1. Two performances, 2 p. m. and 5 p. m.

HEARST IS FOR TAFT.

Warns Nation Against the Rough Rider's Nomination.

William Randolph Hearst, former aspirant for the Democratic nomination for President, issued a remarkable statement over his own signature in which he unqualifiedly indorses President Taft. In doing so he also criticizes the administration of President Roosevelt and in many words warns the American nation against a renewal of the political domination of the former President.

Hearst called at the White House and spent a half an hour with the President. Upon leaving Hearst said he had called merely to pay his respects to President Taft, whom he said he admired. Later he issued his endorsement of the Taft administration.

"No one can talk with the President without appreciating and respecting his earnestness and sincerity. Personally I believe also in his efficiency. He has been one year in office and he has certainly accomplished more in that one year than Roosevelt did in his first year."

"It is hardly fair to compare Taft's one year with Roosevelt's seven and yet I am sure that, with that the comparison might not be to Taft's advantage."

"Taft's methods, not those of Roosevelt, but then Taft will probably conclude his term with a panic."

"On the whole it seems to me that a quiet, earnest gentleman, who came into office when the country was in the slough of adversity, and after one year in office has placed the country on the high road to prosperity, is quite as valuable a President as a more showy and spectacular person, who found the country in the height of prosperity and left it in the depths of adversity."

Heavy, impure blood makes a muddy, pimply complexion, headaches, nausea, indigestion. Thin blood makes you weak, pale, sickly. Burdock Blood Bitters makes the blood rich, red, pure—restores perfect health.

Fruit Not Hurt So Far.

H. F. Hillemeier, of Lexington, advises all owners of fruit trees and budding shrubbery not to be alarmed over the result of the cold snap. He said:

"I am one of the largest fruit growers in this section of the State, I suppose, and I am not in the least alarmed over the chances of my crop being killed or injured."

PEOPLE WE KNOW.

They are Mt. Sterling People, and What They Say is of Local Interest.

When an incident like the following occurs right here at home, it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the rounds of the press; are published as facts, people become skeptical. On one subject skepticism is rapidly disappearing. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens, and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this. The public statement of a reputable citizen living right at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on:

Thomas Holland, 52 E. High St., Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "I have been using Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally for two years and I consider them an excellent remedy. Doctors pronounced my trouble lumbago and spent hundreds of dollars in an unsuccessful effort to find relief. Doan's Kidney Pills, however, which I procured at F. C. Duerson's Drug Store, did me more good than any other remedy I had previously taken. They removed the backache, and regulated the passages of the kidney secretions, in fact, entirely cured me."

Loose Methods.

Fred F. Killen, trustee of Bolivar township, Benton county, Ind., resigned when the State Board of Accounts charged him with loose methods. The charges are backed by affidavits from school teachers and county officers. Miss Mae Andrews, a school teacher, makes affidavit that Killen had for sign two contracts, one for $60 and the other for $70 a month, saying that it was the custom for trustees to get a percentage of the salary, one contract to be public and the other private.

THAT BURNING.

On Sunday morning about 3 o'clock an attempt was made to burn a warehouse (see notice "Attempted Arson") belonging to H. Clay McKee. Recently two attempts were made to burn property belonging to Mr. Ed. Reis.

Fire started in a town or city is liable to spread to other buildings and may result in enormous property loss if not loss of life.

The man guilty of such lawlessness is a public enemy and deserves severe punishment or needs to be made over, needs a new heart. He loves not God or man. He is in danger of a fire hotter than he kindled when he applied the torch, a fire that water will not extinguish.

Citizens generally, and police and other civil officers especially, should use every effort to detect the perpetrators of such crimes against a private person or the community. Life and property are not safe when such deeds are not closely investigated, and when the guilty go unpunished.

When lawlessness is committed, too many citizens are inclined to say: "That don't concern me. To trace down or give information is none of my business. Let the officers do that," and thus the community becomes a good place—to move from.

RAILROAD IMPROVEMENT.
We are pleased to state that the C. & O. officials have had removed an embankment which partially obstructed the view of approaching trains from the east at the crossing on Owensville pike at city limits on E. Main, and also substituted a wire cattle guard for the 6 inch boards, which had been in use, thus eliminating very largely if not wholly the danger, if the traveler on the pike will use ordinary diligence in protecting himself when such trains are approaching.

REAPING.

The fourteen Bracken county men who forced W. S. Henderson to sign a contract not to buy any of the 1906-07 pooled tobacco are now paying for their folly.

On Wednesday in the United States Court at Covington a verdict for $6,000 damages was returned against them. "Whatever a man sows that shall he also reap."

Perhaps such thoughtless men will learn a lesson after awhile. Men should learn that God and other men have rights that are to be respected.

SUCCESS TO HIM.

For over four years Mr. Gamil Senff has been Deputy County Clerk under John F. King, deceased. He has been courteous, capable and accommodating. We do not know his plans for the future, but wish him abundant success.

NEW COUNTY CLERK.

Mr. R. A. Chiles Appointed to Succeed John F. King.

We have heard that there were many applicants for the County Clerkship made vacant by the death of Mr. John F. King on Tuesday of last week and who was buried on Thursday morning.

On Thursday afternoon Judge G. A. McCormick appointed to the office R. A. Chiles, the widely known lawyer, of our city. Circuit Judge J. M. Benton, of Winchester, issued a certificate of qualification to Mr. Chiles to meet the requirements of the law. The new Clerk on Saturday morning took charge of the office, and at once appointed as his deputies Mr. Thos. B. Rodman and Mr. John H. Blount, who will have charge of the office.

As Mr. Chiles is a lawyer of ability and a hustling business man he is eminently qualified; the new deputies are also experienced business men, and will no doubt soon master the details of the office.

Attempted Arson.

For two days H. Clay McKee had men engaged in removing a two-story frame warehouse, 20x60 feet from a lot on Bank street to a lot adjoining the old brick boarding house on Locust street. When Saturday night came the house was left standing in front of its intended site, ready to be placed on Monday morning.

On Sunday morning at 3 o'clock the fire alarm sounded. Some persons or person had placed a barrel and a bread basket of paper and other inflammable material near one end of the house and fired it. The fire company arrived and put out the fire, after about 15 ft. of one side, one end and practically the entire roof was destroyed. On Monday the moving of the building was completed.

Judge McKee expected to convert the building into sleeping apartments, or use it for a warehouse. There was no insurance. See editorial.

THE FREEZE.

Much Fruit and All Early Vegetables Killed.

On Saturday night the thermometer dropped below freezing point over this county, a large part of the State and many Northern and Western States. In our city and county nearly all vegetables and fruits were killed. Cherries as large as a buckshot and plums 1 to 1 1/2 inch long were frozen hence are dead. Grape sprouts 4 to 6 inches with fruit withered. One man reported that he lost one acre of potatoes.

Another freeze came on Sunday night adding further destruction to what was left. No doubt some gardens in spots have escaped, but the loss will be heavy.

The Sense of Duty.
A sense of duty pursues us ever. It is omnipresent like the Deity. If we take to ourselves the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea, duty performed or duty violated is still with us, for our happiness or our misery. If we say the darkness shall cover us, in the darkness as in the light our obligations are with us yet.—Daniel Webster.

Drunken Fight.

Two men are dead, two are mortally wounded and two seriously hurt as the result of a fight at the country resort of Dudley Lutes, son of former County Clerk W. C. Lutes, near Heidelberg, Lee county, Saturday night, April 16. The dead are C. Jones and Jeff Wilson. Clay Hall and Elmer Mattox will die. Robert Farmer was shot in the leg, and John Swann, telegraph operator at Heidelberg, was shot in the foot.

All were in the place drinking when Jones began brandishing a revolver. Wilson tried to take the weapon away from Jones, and failing, turned to leave, when it is alleged Jones shot him in the back.

Ed Wilson shot Jones through the heart. The others injured had no part in the fight.

Ladies, you will like the RED CROSS shoe. Let Miss Florence McNamara or myself show it to you. J. H. Brunner, sole agent.

Horace Benton, of Broadhead, Ky., recently on trial for killing W. E. Willis, of Richmond, Ky., in St. Louis last year, was acquitted on the ground of self defense.

The Smallest Possible.

Militia for Jackson.

The young men of Jackson have succeeded in securing a sufficient number of applicants for members of the State Guards to compose a company and have put the matter up to the County Judge for his approval and for the Fiscal Court to provide an armory for drill work and storage house for guns and other supplies. Judge Hagins, it is believed, will see that the company is well provided for, as Brethitt county has for a long time felt the need of a well organized company of the State Guard.

Naturalization Required.

A residence of at least five years is required to qualify an alien for naturalization. No matter how long a man may have been in the United States, two years must elapse between the date of his declaration of intention and his admittance to full citizenship.

Buried Here.

On Tuesday of last week Mr. James Curn, aged 90 years, who died at Marion, Ind., was brought here for burial in St. Thomas cemetery. He was a brother-in-law of Mrs. John McGiloway.

East and West.

There is no longer any doubt, our Shanghai correspondent tells us, that the old order of thought which has guided the lives of countless millions in the Chinese empire through a long succession of centuries is passing away forever. The movement in favor of western education has become irresistible.—London Times.

Flexible Glue.

One part Venetian turpentine added to four parts of glue will make a flexible glue to attach leather to metals, says the Scientific American. The mass is heated in a glue pot until it becomes sticky and no more bubbles appear. A fresh mixture will work best.

Not What They Seemed.
"Your goose is cooked," cried one of two speakers. "And your cake is dough," retorted the other. But they were not enemies reprimanding with joy at each other's misfortune; they were merely two friendly cocks comparing notes of progress.

Norway's Wooden Churches.
Some of the wooden churches of Norway are fully 700 years old and are still in an excellent state of preservation. Their timbers have successfully resisted the frosty and almost arctic winters because they have been repeatedly coated with tar.

Needed an Hourglass.
A clergyman made an unusually long call at the home of a parishioner. He talked and talked. Finally little Edna, who was present, whispered: "Mamma, did the minister forget to bring his 'amen' with him?"

Cook in Comfort

You no longer need wear yourself out with the weakening heat of an intensely hot kitchen. You can cook in comfort.

Here is a stove that gives no outside heat. All its heat is concentrated at the burners. An intense blue flame (hotter than either white or red) is thrown upwards but not around. All the heat is utilized in cooking—none in outside heating.

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove entirely removes the discomfort of cooking. Apply a match and immediately the stove is ready. Instantly an intense heat is projected upwards against the pot, pan, kettle or boiler, and yet there is no surrounding heat—no smell—no smoke.

Why? Because The New Perfection Oil Cook-stove is scientifically and practically perfect. You cannot use too much wood—it is automatically controlled. You get the maximum heat—no smoke. The burner is simple. One pipe with a cloth cleans it—consequently there is no smell.

The New Perfection Oil Cook-stove is wonderful for year-round use, but especially in summer. Its heat operates upward to pan, pot, or kettle, but not beyond or around. It is useless for heating a room.

It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot.

It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove with the nameplate that reads "New Perfection."

THE LITTLE HELPER.

The folks all say that I'm so small
There's nothing I can do
They say, "Just wait until you're tall
And strong, like Brother Lou."
But mother says, when it comes night,
That I'm her helpful son,
Because I try with all my might
To mind, as if I was fun.
And when she says, "Come now, my boy,
This time to go to bed,"
I try to laugh and jump for joy;
I'd rather cry instead.

Declared Legal in Canada.

Bookmaking was on the 16th declared legal in Canada by the House of Commons. Last week the Commons defeated the Miller anti-gambling bill, which forbade bookmaking in Canada. A compromise was effected.

The bill prohibits all forms of gambling connected with racing but declared that the prohibition does not extend to betting, bookmaking or pool-selling upon the track of any incorporated racing association.

President Taft says he has had enough and that one term will do for him. He doubtless sees that the trend of sentiment is for Mr. Roosevelt.

At last I took Cardui and now I can do my housework. I have told many ladies about Cardui and recommend it to all sick women." Try it.

AT ALL DRUG STORES

LITTLE TRIBUTE TO "DAD"

When You Come to Think of It
Hain't He Really Got Something
Coming to Him?

We happened in a home the other night, and over the post door saw the legend worked in letters of red. "What is Home Without a Mother?" Across the room was another brief, "God Bless Our Home."

Now, what's the matter with "God Bless Our Dad"? He gets up early lights the fire, boils an egg and wipes off the dew of the dawn with his boots, while many a mother is sleeping. He makes the weekly handout for the butcher, the grocer, the milk man and baker, and his pile is badly worn before he has been home an hour.

If there is a noise during the night dad is kicked in the back and made to go downstairs to find the burglar and kill him. Mother dreads the socks, but dad dreads the socks in the first place, and the needles and the yarn afterward. Mother does up the socks, but dad bought it all, and jars and sugar cost like the mischief.

Dad buys the chickens for the Sunday dinner, carries them himself and draws the neck from the ruins after every one else has done so. He is the "Home Without a Mother." Yes, that is all right; but what is home without a father? Ten chances in one it's a boarding house, father is under a slab and the landlady is the widow. Dad, here's to you—you've got your faults—you may have lots of em—but you're all right, and we will miss you when you're gone.

PERFECTLY TRUE IN THEORY

Impossible to Refute Arguments
Made as to the Uprightness of Mankind.

"Here is a curious paradox," said George. "If a thousand soldiers are drawn up in battle array on a plane—they understand him to mean 'plain'—only one man will stand upright."

Nobody could see why. But George explained that, according to Euclid, a plane can touch a sphere only at one point, and that that person who stands at that point, with respect to the center of the earth, will stand upright.

"In the same way," he remarked, "if a billiard table were quite level—that is, a perfect plane—the balls ought to roll to the center."

Though he tried to explain this by placing a visiting card on an orange and expounding the law of gravitation, Mrs. Alford declined to accept the statement. She could not see that the top of a true billiard table, theoretically, be spherical, just like a portion of the orange peel that George pointed out. Of course, the table is so small in proportion to the surface of the earth that the curvature is not appreciable, but it is nevertheless in theory. A surface that we call level is not the same as our idea of a true geometrical plane.

Girl Got Even.

The man who keeps a watchful eye on the federal government bought five postage stamps. The drug store cashier laid them down, and thereupon the customer confounded her with his knowledge of the government. He unfolded a newspaper and pointed to a headline. "Stamps must be delivered gummy side up."

"See that?" said he. "By laying down stamps the way you did you are loading me up with germs. They will stick to the gum on the stamps and I shall get them home and maybe be laid up with a spell of sickness."

The girl gave the stamps another little push and she was off. "What do you want me to do?" she asked.

"Take these stamps back," said he, "and lay on your own gummy side up, as the government directs."

She obeyed. He folded the slip, still gum side out, and put it in his pocket. He went home, wrote letters till bed-time and prepared to stick on the stamps. Then he said, "Hang that girl!"

She had given him one cent stamp.

The Late William Everett.

It is said that once, while headmaster of Adams academy, he threw a Latin grammar at a pupil and scared or injured him. The father of the boy came and expostulated. "But, my dear sir," exclaimed Dr. Everett, "your boy said 'gotten'!"

At the Thursday Evening club a new member remarked innocently and pleasantly as the members arose one evening. "That was a good paper, Prof. Everett."

Dr. Everett turned upon him, white with a sudden passion, and almost shouted out: "Don't call me 'professor'! Call me 'Mr.' call me 'Doctor,' call me 'Bully,' call me anything you please—but not 'professor.' If you call me 'professor' people will think I am one of Charles Eliot's minions!"

He—We sat for an hour and you never opened your mouth.
She—Yes, I remember, dear.

He—Ah, that was the happiest hour of my life!

CUSTOMS OF AFRICAN TRIBES

Queer Beliefs and Superstitions That Are Common in the Interior.

One of the queer customs of the Bamba race in Africa is cannibalism of a particularly loathsome form. According to a writer in the Geographical Journal, families exchange their young children, who are then eaten. He continues that the Bamba in many cases file their teeth, but practice is not quite general. They are jovial, despite their singular characteristics. The Bamyangos, another tribe, have an unpleasant custom of extracting the four lower incisors, which causes the upper teeth to grow forward, impairing to their mouths a most unpleasant rabbit-like appearance.

The Babinu, he says again, believe vaguely in an all-powerful deity, who is associated mainly with rain, thunder and other weather phenomena. They endeavor to propitiate various devils, most of whom are connected with the prevalent disease, by erecting loss houses in which food and beer are placed. They invariably carry the necks of wooden chairs or small goats' horns, which have been invested with magical power by the medicine men, and usually wear wire bracelets and anklets.

Although mosquitoes of several varieties abound, the Awatawa appear to be immune from malaria. When a death takes place the body is disposed of by being placed on a small raft of reeds and covered over by a mat of the same material; this strange craft is floated away far into the interior of the swamp and abandoned. Many of the natives find it hard to traverse any considerable distance on dry land, a possible explanation being that their feet have become soft through continual contact with the water, as most of the canoes are by no means water-tight.

GOING TO THE FULL LIMIT

Leisured and Refined Classes Put a Pathetic Plea for Protection.

A motoring paper makes a temperate demand that the onus of avoiding traffic should lie on the pedestrian instead of the driver.

This is only the latest protest. We should go further and have an injunction restraining sick persons in hospital from moaning and disturbing the neighborhood. Also an amendment to the workmen's compensation act, under which a servant falling downstairs should hang herself without any damages to her mistress for interrupting the household routine.

Another really needed reform: Should not some law limit be placed to the annoying habit of starving people walking about and disgusting the streets? The reformer may presume to begin to starve, should not be confined in some penal settlement until he perceives the error of his ways?

Things have come to such a pass in this country that some drastic measures should be taken to protect the leisured and refined classes—Black and White, London.

The Temper Sweetener.

"May I trouble you to hand me a called it impudence," said the woman. "Maybe I would have called it that myself if I had wit enough left to call it anything, but she took me so by surprise, that new maid. Before I was half dressed she tapped at my door and offered me a glass of steaming brown liquid."

"What is that?" I asked.

"Just a temper sweetener," she said. "Made of ginger and spices and other good things. It'll put you in a good humor with the world for the day."

"Maybe I ought to have got mad because she had dared tell me I needed a temper sweetener, but she looked so stilly and the dose of good smelled so fragrant, and she was so cheap I laughed and gulped it down. I don't know what was in it; the maid won't tell—says it is her special recipe. She takes a glass, too, and we get along beautifully together."

Next Year in the Air.

"Aviators like Paulhan, who is reputed to be receiving $50,000 for his visit to this country, and Bleriot whom I know to have made $200,000 since he flew across the English channel, are lucky to be making it now," said an Aero club enthusiast.

"In another year there will be so much competition that you will be able to hire daring aeromancers like Paulhan and Bleriot at $100 a day as high divers are now procured by country fairs. Why, in France alone there are now actually 200 men known to be flying in various makes of planes, and they are getting more plentiful and proficient every day. Let the brave ones get a grip on this country and life on our streets will be a positive peril beside which the menace of automobiles will be forgotten."

He Knew the Signs.

A teacher in a alumni school was calling over the names of his scholars in order to ascertain which of them were likely to leave shortly.

"Please, sir," said one urchin, "I think I shall leave soon."

"Why, Tommy," asked the teacher.

"Please, sir," he said, "I think we're going to leave our house, 'cause mother's burned the coalhouse door. She's got the cupboard door, and now father's a chop-pin' down the stairs. We allus leave after we've burned the stairs."

It Saves You Money.

The special half price sale of Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia by W. S. Lloyd means the saving of a few dollars on every family's yearly bill for medicines.

Each 50 cent bottle (Mr. W. S. Lloyd sells it for 25c.) contains sixty doses of a medicine that is pleasant to take and which can be depended upon to cure the worst case of constipation, dyspepsia or liver trouble. Mr. W. S. Lloyd has so much faith in the superior merit of this medicine that he says: "If Dr. Howard's specific does not cure you, come back to my store and I will return your money."

This remedy is not an ordinary medicine. It is the favorite formula of a well-known physician, and has the endorsement of hundreds of physicians of eminence in their profession, who prescribe it in all cases of constipation, dyspepsia or liver trouble, knowing from experience that it will make a complete and lasting cure.

They Prayed.

When I was a little girl about ten years old I was watching a brute trying to "break" a yoke of steers. They had been allowed to grow quite large before the breaking process was begun, and consequently, they were very awkward. The brute was using a good stick, that old-time instrument of torture to helpless oxen. He was also using the most dreadful profanity.

All at once the steers dropped upon their knees, and set up the most pitiful howling, a sort of smothered roaring. I can hear it now.

"I'll make ye say yer prayers," the brute said, using the instrument of torture still harder, while the blood was dripping from their sides.

I really thought they were praying. Who shall say they're not?—Our Dumb Animals.

Increase Taxes.

The State Board of Valuations and Assessments at Frankfort has finally passed on the franchise assessments of the L. & N. railroad and the I. C. railroad. The two railroads were given substantial raises and the increase will give the State about $6,000 a year more money in taxes than was received last year. The assessment of the I. C. Railroad was raised from $16,103,000 to $16,344,000. The L. & N. was raised from $36,750,000 to $37,498,000. The L. & N.'s tangible property, which must be deducted from this assessment, amounts to $28,000,000. With both railroads the tangible property is deducted from the total assessment and the remainder is the franchise value. The L. & N.'s franchise is valued this year at $9,440,000 and the I. C.'s franchise at $4,228,000. Each railroad is assessed an increase of $500 a mile over last year.

Candidate For Superintendent.

Professor Rice S. Eubanks, editor of the Southern School Journal, has formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Superintendent of Public Instruction to succeed Prof. J. G. Crabbe.

Professor Eubanks is one of the leaders of education in Kentucky and has the backing of many influential people in his party.

A Child's Comment.

Even little children are amazed at the backwardness of New York. A bright youngster of five, crossing over from New Jersey and seeing the West street transportation relic for the first time, jerked her father's coat-tail nearly off, exclaiming: "Oh, papa, see the trolley cars being pulled by horses!"—N. Y. Press.

Not Like a Hen.

"The female codfish," remarked the boarder who had been gleaming statistics from between the covers of a patent medicine almanac, "lays more than a million eggs. Now, what do you think of that?" "I think," rejoined the cheerful idiot, "that it's a mighty lucky thing for the codfish that she doesn't have to cackle over every egg."

GOV. PATTERSON.

Nashville Tennessean, Formerly Edited by the Slain Carmack, Bitterly Attacks Executive.

No recent case in the South has attracted general attention to a greater extent than the decision of the Tennessee Supreme Court that Duncan B. Cooper should serve twenty years in the penitentiary for complicity in the murder of former U. S. Senator Edward W. Carmack, editor of the Nashville Tennessean, and the following of this decision in a few minutes by a full and free pardon being issued to Col. Cooper by Gov. Patterson.

The Nashville Tennessean, the paper formerly edited by Carmack, heads the anti-Patterson faction, while the Memphis Commercial-Appeal heads the Patterson forces. From the editorials in these papers the morning following the action of the Supreme Court and the pardon, we clip from the Tennessean:

TENNESSEE DISGRACED.

On yesterday the Supreme Court affirmed the penitentiary sentence of Duncan B. Cooper for the murder of Senator E. W. Carmack. Almost immediately thereafter Governor Patterson issued a pardon to Cooper. Patterson said: "Being thoroughly familiar with the record, having read all the testimony and testified to certain facts within my personal knowledge, it is neither desirable nor necessary to delay action for petting to be presented asking executive clemency."

"In my opinion, neither of the defendants is guilty."

In Patterson's opinion "neither of the defendants is guilty." In other words, Patterson justifies the killing. And yet what the facts?

On November 8, 1908, D. B. Cooper sent word to Senator Carmack that if his (Cooper's) name appeared in The Tennessean again or the other must die.

"Cooper's name appeared in The Tennessean on November 9. On that same afternoon D. B. Cooper and Robin Cooper, two to one, met Senator Carmack and killed him."

For the crime Cooper was tried and convicted. Cooper's sentence was affirmed by the Supreme Court of the State.

With everything in his favor and every obstacle possible in the way of the prosecution, Cooper was convicted of the crime which he had boasted he would commit.

And now amid the echo of the last words of Justice Shields ceased to reverberate in the court room when a pardon was granted by the creature who befools the Governor's chair.

Why?

Was the pardon granted because there is no longer a government in Tennessee? Because organized anarchy reigns where law and order once held sway? Because court favorites are licensed to take human life? Because the Governor's friend can commit no crime?

Or was the immediate granting of the pardon due to other motives? Was it a sequel to the damaging contradictions made by the Governor the night Carmack's death redeemed Cooper's threat?

Many remember Patterson's conflicting statements on November 9, 1908, when he stated over his signature that he had seen both the Coopers that day and had no reason to believe they planned an altercation with Carmack or any one else. This he contradicted by his subsequent written statement the same evening that he knew of Cooper's hostile state of mind toward Carmack and that he had done all in his power to prevent a difficulty by Cooper with Carmack.

Men may differ as to the motive that underlies this pardon, this outrage on decency, this invitation to crime, this licensing of gubernatorial favorites to go man-hunting. Some may assert that it was due to favoritism; others may couple the pardon with Patterson's contradiction the night of the murder and attribute it to even baser motives, but all men agree that in pardoning Cooper, Patterson has not only further debauched and besmirched himself but he has disgraced Tennessee.

In the eyes of civilization Tennessee stripped, naked of the law's protection to human life, stands humiliated and disgraced—and honest Tennesseans everywhere hang their heads in shame when they are forced to admit they are citizens of the State of which Patterson is Governor.

"CLEARED."

(Let readers of The Tennessean note how anti Mr. Kipling's verses written years ago fit Tennessee of today.)

"'Clear!' honorable gentlemen. Be thankful it's no more."

The widow's curse on your house, the dead are at your door.

On you the shame of open shame, on you from North to South

The land of every honest man flat-footed across your mouth.

"'Less black than we were painted!'"

Faith, no word of black was said; The lightest touch was human blood, and that, we know, runs red.

It's sticking to your fist today for all your sneer and scoff.

And by the judge's well-weighed word, you cannot wipe it off.

"The charge is old!"—as old as Cain—as fresh as yesterday.

Odd as the Ten Commandments, have ye talked these laws away?

If words are words, or death is death, or powder sends the ball,

You spoke the words that edged the shot—the curse be on you all.

"Our friends believe!" Of course they do—as sheltered women may.

But have they seen the shrieking soul ripped from the quivering clay?

They'll—if their own front door is shut, they'll swear the whole world's wrong.

What do they know of dread of death or hanging fear of harm?

If black is black or white is white, in black and white it's down.

You're only traitors to the Queen and rebels to the crown.

If print is print or words are words, the learned Court depends:

WE ARE NOT RULED BY MURDERERS, BUT ONLY—BY THEIR FRIENDS.

—Rudyard Kipling.

From the Commercial-Appeal:

THE COOPER CASE.

A divided court has sustained the verdict in the Cooper case as to Duncan B. Cooper, and reversed the same as to Robin Cooper.

Duncan B. Cooper was pardoned by Gov. Patterson before he left the capitol grounds.

Many of Gov. Patterson's friends will say that he showed quick courage in pardoning Cooper; others will charge him with indecent haste.

If Gov. Patterson permitted Cooper to go to the penitentiary his enemies would probably have charged him with not having nerve to do what he would like to do. The Governor's own reason for his act are stated.

If Gov. Patterson's act, then, is in line with his conscientious conviction, his friends will claim for him that he did his duty courageously in following his conscience.

The people of Tennessee are entirely familiar with the main facts in this deplorable tragedy.

Patterson and Carmack were opposing candidates for Governor and Cooper was Patterson's friend. Carmack bitterly assailed Cooper on the stump and criticised him in a newspaper. The result was a collision and a tragedy.

The passions of the campaign, political hatred and other elements entered in the trial. It was alleged that there had been a conspiracy between the father and the son to murder Carmack, and on this theory the case went to a jury.

It was alleged by the defense that the son was in the role of a peace-maker, and that he was acting in self-defense and trying to save his father's life.

The actors in this tragedy were all concerned in Tennessee politics. The verdict of the highest court and the action of the Governor bring about a result that does not eliminate the case from politics. It is an unfortunate condition that intemperance in speech and intemperance in action in political contests and often in the private affairs of life in the South result in conditions that culminate in tragedies like this which brought about the death of the brilliant Carmack.

There is nothing in this case nor in the result that will increase the respect of men for law, and the lack of respect that men have for the law was at the foundation of this tragedy and in many others whose story is daily told in Southern newspapers.

As long as men go about armed—as long as men take the law in their own hands—such things as this killing will occur.

Human life is cheap in this country, because men refuse to surrender an opinion that they alone must decide for themselves what they will do, regardless of the law and regardless of the rights of others.

The ties of personal friendship cause men to forget the letter of the law, just as the fires of political opposition engender personal hatred, and until men become less reckless in speech and in action—until they measure questions on their merits rather than upon their prejudices—there will be tragedies like this which have ended to the confusion of many men and to the satisfaction of no man. And until men cease trusting to pistols and to physical force to vindicate their grievances, or fancied grievances, these things will go on, until all of us have a higher respect for the law and recognize it as the supreme tribunal in all questions there will be divided verdicts in courts and pardons by governors.

We are all creatures of the same environment, and until our standards of life are changed and until all men recognize the fact that human life is a precious thing the men cease to act upon impulse rather than upon judgment, human lives will be shot away.

Can't God Count?

Two children were carrying a basket of cakes to their grandmother. When their eyes saw the tempting cakes, their mouths fairly watered. After counting them over several times they almost made up their minds to eat just one of them. Nobody would know.

Just as they were ready to take one, the little girl looked up into her brother's face and thoughtfully asked the matter-of-fact question, "Can't God count?"

This settled the matter immediately, and all the little cakes were carried to their grandmother.—Herald and Presbyter.

The C. W. B. M. and Bible School Convention of the Eighth district was held at Winchester, beginning with a reception at the church on Wednesday evening.

The welcome was expressed by the pastor, J. H. McNeill, and Miss Carrie Lee Hathaway. The responses were by Mrs. Morgan Goodpastor, for Bath; Miss Bessie Anderson, for Bourbon; Miss Mary Henderson, for Clark, Mrs. Desha, for Harrison; Mrs. Amelia Young, for Montgomery, and Mrs. Tuppie Hainline Davis, for Nicholas. The program for Thursday was fully carried out, every speaker being present and nearly all auxiliaries represented. Reports full of encouragement were read, and all addresses were excellent. Prominent workers from the district, State and National Boards took part, of whom were Mrs. John Gay and Mrs. Sarah Yancey, of the State Board; Mrs. A. M. Harrison, of Lexington; National Vice President; Mrs. M. E. Harlan, of Indianapolis; National Secretary, and Rev. H. J. Derthick, manager of the C. W. B. M. School at Livingston, Tenn., with enrollment of over 500. Among the Children's Bands Mt. Sterling was well represented, its report being read by Miss Julia Rodman; a recitation by Miss Mattie Judy Botts and a solo by Miss Frances Samuels, adding to the interest. Fully 40 children of the Winchester Band sang. It is indeed gratifying to see the children enlisted and so enthusiastic in religious work.

OFFICERS.

The C. W. B. M. officers for next year are: Mrs. Alex. Conner, District Manager; Mrs. Nancy McClure, District Secretary, both re-elected. County Managers: Mrs. John Scott, Bath; Mrs. W. R. Scott, Bourbon; Mrs. J. H. Allen, Clark; Mrs. Ashbrook, Harrison; Mrs. B. W. Trimble, Montgomery, and Mrs.

IS YOUR WIFE AFRAID OF YOU?

There Are Wives Who Fear To Ask for Money To Buy Shoes
For the Children.

You may have been married ten years, but do you really know your wife? Have you allowed her to feel that she knew you?

You may have been kind, in your way, and given her every luxury you could afford but, have you treated her as an equal, or as a child?

Perhaps you married a light-hearted, pleasure-loving girl and you expected the butterfly to turn, at once, into a sober gray moth. You expected her to settle down into a humdrum existence, when all her gay youthfulness cried aloud for sunshine and gaiety.

You fell in love with her for the very qualities which, after marriage, you try to suppress.

How did you meet her shy confidences, when she tried to talk as though she understood all about business?

Did you try to help her, or did you intimate that she should not talk about things she knew nothing about?

Of course she didn't know, but, for your sake she wanted to learn. AID YOU NEGLECTING HER?

Perhaps you gradually became more and more absorbed in your business and left her to fill her life as best she might.

Some men imagine that a woman's life can be filled by babies and household cares.

Both babies and home mean a great deal to any real woman, but they are not enough; she wants more; she wants a companion, sympathy and understanding.

Very often, where a woman deserts her husband, it is simply because the other man offers her the sympathy she is starving for.

It does not last, but she is too unhappy, in the present, to think of the future.

The outside world blames the wife and, half the time, the one most to blame is the husband who neglected her.

"She had a good home and an indulgent husband," the critics say. "Why couldn't she be satisfied?"

I am not justifying the woman who deserts her husband and children; I am merely asserting that she is not as happy in her home as the world considers her to be.

Hundreds of women are afraid of their husbands—husbands whom the world believes to be all that is desirable.

There are wives who absolutely dread having to ask for money to buy shoes for the children or to pay the grocer.

Don't the children belong to the fathers, as well as the mothers, and aren't the grocery bills due to providing food for the household?

Other women are afraid of their husband's ridicule; others afraid of their husband's ill temper.

I know of one husband, a very rich man, who, though he professed to love his wife devotedly, never allowed her a cent of money.

He paid her bills and would buy her all the pretty clothes she wanted; but ready money she never had.

She was most unhappy and very sensitive to a degree over her penniless condition.

What your wife wants—what every wife wants—is sympathy and equality.

Half the time she is a better woman than you are a man, and yet you expect her to look up to you.

You ought to be on your knees to her, instead, you tower above her in magnificent condescension.

The hen-pecked man is a myth, or if he really exists, he is a mouse; and any self-respecting woman wants a man for a husband, not a mouse.

She does not want to fear him, nor to have him fear her; she simply wants to stand beside him his mate and equal.—Beatrice Fairfax.

DESERT TO BE RECLAIMED

Plans on Foot by Which Mesopotamia Will Be Restored to Ancient Fruitfulness.

It has always seemed a most extraordinary thing that the land between the Tigris and the Euphrates, which was the seat of the greatest empires of the ancient world, and which shared with the Nile valley the distinction of being the richest corn-growing land, should for so many centuries been desolate and waste. But the natural richness of the soil is not the only factor in the fertility of the land. Even more than Egypt it was dependent on careful and scientific irrigation, and in the days of the great sovereigns of Babylon the canals were most strictly and jealously guarded. But when the ancient empires finally fell the canals and irrigation works were neglected and left unworked for, with the result that in a few years' time the sand of the desert and the weeds choked up the waterways, and the land relapsed into desolation. But the new ministry at Constantinople has awakened to the importance of the matter, and Sir William Wilcocks, the famous engineer, who wrote a most valuable monograph on the Babylonian canals a few years ago, has been entrusted with the work. The total cost of the work on the Euphrates is estimated at a quarter of a million of Turkish pounds, of which £100,000 will be spent in the first year. For such an absurdly small sum can the desert be once more turned into fertile land.

KNOW THE PANGS OF HUNGER

Antarctic Explorers Have Fellow-Feeling for the Poor of the Great World's Cities.

Sir Ernest Shackleton told a fashionable drawing-room audience in London the other day what it feels like to be ferociously hungry.

During the last stage of his antarctic expedition, he said, when the members of his party were sitting in their tents, each nibbling his one biscuit, if a man happened to drop a crumb six pairs of eyes would follow it on its downward path to the floor. If he had not noticed it, which was a very rare occurrence, his attention would be drawn to it and he would wet the tip of his finger and pick it up. Not a morsel was allowed to escape.

In his diary for the same day last year he found the entry: "Very hungry, dreaming of food all night; thinking of food all day." They were hungry for three months, he continued, and during that time had only one full meal—on Christmas day.

They often asked each other what people in the cities did when they were dying of starvation, because the law of man would have stood between them and a baker's shop if they had had an opportunity of getting in. When they came back to civilization they were so shrunk in size that at first they were unable to eat as much as an ordinary man, but afterward they ate so much that they made up their minds that they would never see a hungry person flattening his nose against a bake-shop window without giving him something.

He Changed His Drink.

In Magistrate "Jimmy" Briggs' office the other morning a woman had her husband arrested for drunkenness.

"Your honor," pleaded the woman. "I am the mother of six children. Last week this man came home and he did not give me a cent of his week's pay. Ever since that time he has been doing nothing but drink, and he won't work, so I want you to give him a good long sentence."

"Your honor," said the man, "if you'll let me go this time, I'll sign the pledge for five years and—"

"Don't you let him do it, judge," hotly broke in the woman. "I was easy with him last time and he took the pledge, but didn't keep it."

"Sure, your honor, I did keep it," said the man.

"Yes, your honor, he kept it all right," broke in the woman again. "He swore that he wouldn't drink any more whiskey, but the next night he came home drunk on beer."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

As George Sees the Peers.

"David Lloyd George," said the minor from Wales, as he emptied his glass of crw. "David is a very witty speaker. I've heard him many a time in Carnarvon."

"Speaking in Welsh, he once ridiculed in Carnarvon the house of lords. He said the average peer thought so much of himself that at family prayers he always made one well-known passage run:

"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of the lords forever!"—London Globe.

Treatment for Leprosy.

United States Vice-Consul John H. Mowson, writing from Rangoon, British Burma, describes a treatment of leprosy which in three cases of from 8 to 16 years' standing, has so far succeeded that ultimate recovery is expected. All the repulsive symptoms have been greatly modified, sensation of skin and flesh have returned, and strength renewed to some degree.

The Poultry Yard.

Perfect cleanliness from now on will cut short the louse crop of June.

If you stamp a date on your eggs, sell them before the date gets old.

Keep your meat scraps where they will not get stale and sour. Fresh feed is what makes healthy hens.

Feed little and often, and be careful about overfeeding. This is the great secret in feeding brooder chicks.

Banish the fighting stock from your pens. Give them a place all by themselves. That is the best kind of arbitration.

Cook some beans or peas, mix them with wheat bran and feed twice a week and see if you don't get a lot more eggs.

Have everything convenient. Steps saved in the care of poultry will mean that much less labor. Labor costs money.

When the brooder chicks seem very thirsty, will for water, let them drink and feed very lightly while so feverish.

Many a setting of eggs has been spoiled by making the nest on the floor where the wind can come up through the cracks under the old mother hen.

Wet, cold feet do not do your hens any good. Chills them and keeps them back from doing their level best, and that is the only thing that will satisfy you and me.

Don't be in a hurry to remove the hen and her brood from the nest. The tender little chicks need warmth more than they do feed for the first 24 hours.

Does that old hen lay? Try this if she does not: Feed her all the chopped clover she will eat, with an ounce of lean meat every day. If there is any lay in her that will bring it out.—April Farm Journal.

Orchard and Garden.

"Plant a tree, Jock. It'll be growing while ye're sleepin'."—Bobbie Burns.

Promptly gather up and burn all brush and rubbish in the orchard.

When spraying do not work with bare hands. They'll be sore if you do. Put on a pair of rubber gloves.

Remember when you plow in the orchard that the roots are very near the surface. Three inches is plenty deep enough.

Some fruit growers say that it is not a good plan to plow an orchard when the trees are in blossom—better do it before or after.

How long will our orchards bear the neglect seen on every hand? We need less of extensive farming and more of intensive and sensible operations.

When the leaves begin to grow, the canker-worm may commence to move up on the trunks of fruit and other trees. Bands of tar or printer's ink, if put on the tree trunks in time, will catch many of the pests.

As soon as the leaves start on current or gooseberry bushes, cut out all sickly-looking or non-starting canes and promptly burn the cuttings. Borers are probably within, and in this way they can be kept in check.—April Farm Journal.
